

THE PRODUCER'S PERSPECTIVE

A PRODUCER'S OPINION ON EVERYTHING BROADWAY AND BEYOND

THE WRITER'S EDITION

Happy Friday, Writers!

First, you guys CRUSHED last week's exercise when I challenged you to write your own Tony Award acceptance speech! And thank you to the many of you who shared those speeches with me. I loved reading them.

And I also loved how many of you saved some of your valuable "air time" to thank me. :-) #Blushing.

Second, I wrote something for you guys last night for this email, and well, I just felt that a few more folks might benefit from it. So I decided to put it up on the blog for all to see. Hope you don't mind.

The blog has to do with my commute, and what happened to me on that commute just the other day (you won't believe it) and how it just might help you.

Click here to check it out.

And if it does help, throw up a comment!

Have a great weekend of writing!

Best,

Ken