

William Robert Carey

Writer, Director, Producer

Born in Chicago, Bill graduated from Northwestern University with a degree in English and a minor in theater. He also attended grad school at DePaul University and studied filmmaking at Columbia Film School.

He subsequently worked in the advertising industry as a writer and producer at such ad agencies as Leo Burnett, Cunningham & Walsh, and Campbell-Mithun-Esty.

Simultaneously, he worked as an actor in Chicago theaters such as The Goodman, Pheasant Run, Shakespeare Repertory, and Victory Gardens, and appeared on television and in commercials.

Since turning to directing and producing, he has shot over a hundred commercials for such companies as McDonald's, Pizza Hut and the Chicago White Sox, and won One Show, Mobius, New York International TV & Radio Festival, Telly, and Addy Gold awards.

He recently directed Angels In Stardust, starring Alicia Silverstone and Billy Burke, a feature film based on elements of his first novel, Jesus In Cowboy Boots.

He is a member of five entertainment unions, and a citizen of the U.S. and Ireland.